

GONZALES SEIZES GATEKEEPERS

Villa and His Rebel Forces Now in Galeana District of Western Chihuahua; Local Interest Shifts to Danger to Americans Who Are at the Mercy of Bandits in the Interior; Few Replies to Messages.

GEN. GONZALES announced Wednesday that full guarantees would be given all Americans crossing to Juarez from El Paso, whether on business or as sightseers. He also gave orders to arrest and punish anyone in Juarez caught attempting to cause anti-American demonstrations or spreading propaganda against the American government or Americans.

Gen. Gonzales and his staff also issued a manifesto to the Mexican people denying that he or any of his officers asked for aid from the American military authorities to repel Villa attacks and stating that, at the time the American troops crossed in pursuit of Villa, there were no Villa rebels in Juarez all having been driven out during Sunday night.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Revenants Disappeared. With the settlement of the battle at Juarez between Villa and Carranza forces and the subsequent expedition of American troops to Juarez, a decided change in the attitude on both sides of the border is beginning to be apparent. The feeling of resentment which the Carranza officials and military officers in Juarez felt against the American troops at the time of the crossing is giving way to a more friendly feeling in spite of the pro-Villa propaganda being spread in Juarez by Villa sympathizers. The Carranza officials in Juarez claim that the troops would be withdrawn as soon as Villa's men were driven away from the border.

Soldier Begged To Return After Being Wounded

Pvt. Limburg Had Close Call In The Fighting At Juarez.

After being shot through the neck during the fighting near Juarez Monday morning, and brought back to be treated by Dr. A. Swinney, who was detailed to the hospital, Pvt. Arthur A. Limburg, troop 12, Fifth Cavalry, implored the officers to allow him to return to the front and take a "whack at the rebels."

"They almost knocked my head off, but I am all right now," he pleaded.

He did not realize how close he came to death. Barely does a bullet pass through a man's head without killing him. In the case of Pvt. Limburg, the bullet pierced his neck within a hair's breadth of the spinal cord, breasting apparatus and jugular vein. It was reported to be in excellent condition yesterday morning.

WAR DECLARED ON I. W. W. AGITATORS IN SONORA, MEX.

Nogales, Ariz., June 17.—I. W. W. agitators, radical propagandists and vagabonds are in the arrested wherever found in the state of Sonora, Mexico, and put to work in chain gangs on the roads. Illicit whiskey peddlers will be shot.

This was the announcement made by Gen. E. Elias Galles, secretary of the state of Sonora, who is in charge of the state's military forces. He said that he had been told by a former minister of war in Sonora that the I. W. W. agitators were in the state of Sonora, Mexico, and put to work in chain gangs on the roads. Illicit whiskey peddlers will be shot.

Following a conference Tuesday at Nogales, Ariz., between Gen. Elias Galles, secretary of the state of Sonora, and Gen. Carlos Plank, military commander in northern Sonora, Gen. Galles announced that he had adopted a resolution to declare war on the I. W. W. agitators in Sonora, Mexico, and put to work in chain gangs on the roads. Illicit whiskey peddlers will be shot.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Reports relayed from Parral to Nogales, Ariz., and Laredo stating that 200 Yaqui Indians of Gen. Manzanera's army had arrived there, relieving the fear of the American companies operating in that district. The Yaqui Indians are being used by the American companies to guard the border.

Another large operating company in the Parral district, the Carrizosa, is being used by the American companies to guard the border. The Carrizosa is being used by the American companies to guard the border.

EL PASO NEWS

Reported Death of Hypo-lito Villa Cannot Be Confirmed.

Martin Lopez, Pancho Villa's chief lieutenant, may have been killed by American soldiers in the fight in and around the border part of Juarez last Sunday night and Monday morning, but it was "the ear mark" of such an important event are missing, according to men here well informed on Mexican affairs. Martin Lopez, they say, has been "killed" about as often as Villa himself, and both got away from the fight last Sunday night without even being wounded so far as can be learned in circles close to Villa.

The report of the death of Hypo-lito Villa, brother of Pancho, at Villa Ahumada, appears to be discredited by most every one. It is reported that Pancho Villa did not go to Villa Ahumada between last Friday and Sunday night, and that he was in Juarez, where the Mexican North-western railway crosses the Mexican Central, where he had his train waiting for the crossing of the border and the flat cars picked up north of Chihuahua City. It was on this he made his run south with a few men.

Gen. Angeles is said to have been sent before there was any firing on the Villistas from the north shore of the Rio Grande.

From Villista sources the losses of the Villa-Angeles army are given in killed and wounded and captured at the border part of Juarez. The losses left with as many men attached to them as they had when they entered Juarez.

JUDGE LINDEY TO TAKE CASE TO SUPREME COURT. Denver, Colo., June 18.—Attorney for Ben B. Lindsey, judge of Denver's juvenile court, announced Tuesday that he would take the case of a juvenile against him in 1915 and lately sustained by the state supreme court, to the United States supreme court.

The fine was assessed originally against the judge's refusal to disclose in open court what had been told him by Neal Wright, 14-year-old ward of the juvenile court, in order to further the case of the state against Wright. Mrs. Bert A. Wright, charged with the murder of Neal's father.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

NEW ARIZONA APHONY INSPECTOR. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Earl Matson, of Benson, one of the prominent men of Arizona, has been appointed as the new aphony inspector. According to an announcement from the office of Gov. Campbell, Matson will be in charge of the aphony inspection of the state.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

Happer Wires Opinions Held At Washington

Replies To C. of C.; Lower Valley Farmers Fear Villista Raids.

A telegram relative to the attitude of the state and war departments concerning the border situation was received from J. A. Happer, Washington representative of the chamber of commerce, Wednesday morning, by manager Karl M. Roberts, in response to a wire sent by Mr. Roberts.

"The policy of the state and war departments on the Juarez situation will be determined as contingencies arise."

Happer had interviewed with ambassador Fletcher, who says that both state and war departments are in full accord as to the gravity of the situation and will employ every means in their power to protect American lives and property in Mexico and along the border.

Holmes Harwell, county agricultural agent, who returned from a trip through the lower valley Tuesday, says that farmers down the valley are quite nervous concerning the Mexican situation.

They are of the opinion that unless the force of rebels is completely routed out of the border region, it only makes the situation worse, to fight with them, said Mr. Harwell, because when driven out of Juarez, they have camped along the border below. They appreciate the fact that the border patrol has been strengthened, but these patrols in the past have been unable to keep the rebels from coming down the border, stealing, feeding, farm implements and the like.

There is quite a bit of property owned in Mexico by American farmers who were forced to leave in the early revolutions that is now being turned over to the Mexican people. Until recently they have been able to visit these farms more or less regularly and make arrangements for the disposal of their produce, but it is not practicable now for any of them to go there.

POSTPONE DUNBAR HEARING. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—The hearing of criminal trial against John O. Dunbar, publisher of the weekly paper here, which was set for Tuesday, was postponed to a later date. The hearing was postponed because of the illness of the defendant.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.

PHOENIX THEATER FALLS IN. Phoenix, Ariz., June 18.—Virgil Axel, 19, of Phoenix, who with seven others, was injured last night when a theater ceiling collapsed, was reported today to be in a precarious condition. The other injured are reported to be doing better.

The building inspector is holding an investigation into the cause of the collapse of the theater ceiling. The inspector expects to have a report ready tomorrow.